Advanced Learning Series

Medical School for Everyone:

Emergency Medicine

Part 2

Sooner or later, everyone will face a medical emergency. Emergency medicine physicians, paramedics and emergency department nurses know what to do. In this course, you will learn how trained professionals face and overcome just about any medical emergency. This is Part 2 of our series from Winter 2017, providing an examination of the process used to make decisions that can save lives. With the help from a physician mentor (Dr. Benaroch), you will meet dozens of patients in emergency encounters, from triage through their assessments and treatments.

This course will not make you a qualified emergency physician, but it will help you understand how an emergency physician thinks. You will become more knowledgeable and confident, and you will have a better idea how to respond to a medical emergency when it happens to you or a loved one. The Great Courses guidebook for this particular course contains a disclaimer which states that "these lectures are not designed for use as medical reference to diagnose, treat, or prevent medical illnesses or trauma".

- The DVD lecturer for these sessions will be Dr. Roy Benaroch, General Pediatrician
- These sessions will be facilitated by Barry Smith
